THE DECLINE IN COTTON.

The great fall in cotton seriously affects business prospects in the South. The planters will not make their expenses, and those who have rented land will lose money. A large amount of Northern capital invested in cotton planting will be lost. Cotton of the new crop now coming into market is selling in the principal cotton depots of the South at fourteen or fifteen cents, tax included. The buyer generally pays the tax, so the planter obtains about twelve and a half cents, currency, a pound.

Cotton factors in the South advise planters not to hold back their crops in the hope of a rise of a cent or two a pound, as there is more likelihood of further decline than of advance.

S. HINSON,

We thought, some days ago, that the price of cotton would advance; and it has done so. On a question of some of the interest to our planters, it is proper that we should by before them the opinions of others, that do not agree with our own, that upon all they may make up their own judgment, "and not accordingly."

SAVANNAR, October 29.—The election to day passed off questly. Many negroes from the country, and some from South Carolina, voted in the city. The vote of the city was 600 and that of the country. the city was 602 and that of the county 440. About 250 votes were rejected, all of which (except three or four), were for Convention and the Radical ticket. Only one white vote was cast out of 174 city and 80 county votes. Many of the

All the expenses attending the cotton of the var. The twelve and a half cents a pound which the cotton grower receives will be worth to him but six and a quarter cents compared with the specie price of 1890. It is impossible that cotton can be made another season at this price.

The twelve and a half cents a spectacles and umbrella, is laisoring to reconstruct the policy, posity and general with the specie price of the clessital regions. Delty was once an awful Being, whose name was only to be whispered with the specie price of the county—file for the Convention. Sewenteen hundred and eighty-five votes name was only to be whispered with reverence, and whose courts were trodden the county—file for the Convention. The following returns have been found in all parts of the State indiseate that the conservatives took no part in the election. It passed off quietly. Nearly all the votes cast were for a Convention. Sewenteen hundred and eighty-five votes were for the county—file for the county will be seen from the interprise to that event. 117,000 conservatives took no part in the election. It passed off quietly. Nearly all the votes cast were for a Convention. Sewenteen hundred and eighty-five votes name of 1890. It is impossible that cotton can define the votes cast were for a Convention.

We have the county—file for the Convention and of the clear that the convention of general sunder the convention of general sunder the convention. It pass is we hear from the state of the cotton trade abroad. East India and Egyptian cotton will supply the Liverpool market at less rates even than the present.

East India cotton is now quoted at Liverpool at sevenpence, and it can be affected with fair profit at fourpence halfpenny. This will close the Liverpool market against United States cotton for the future. Cotton will expect with and His influence is bearing the future. Cotton will cease to be an American staple.

We nessly certify has the above repors of the state of the cotton can be approached, and figured with, and His influence is bearing the future. Cotton will cease to be an American staple.

With what extraordinary wisdom then did Mr. Morrill, in his defense of the cotton tax, urge that the cotton culture was the most productive of all productis in this country, and the most able of all to be a traxition. Because cotton was at thirty cents at one time, he supposed, perhaps, that it would never decline, even in competition with the product of the cotton conting with the most state of the cotton conting and salistations. bear taxation. Because cotton was at thirty cents at one time, he supposed, perhaps, that it would never decline, even in competition with the product of India. Any well informed cotton trader could have told him better. Besides, he made no allowance, it seems, for the democralization and destruction of black.

But not at all. Puritanism is not yet done reconstructing. It is not satisfied with what it has done upon the earth in the way of intervention, mediation, Sunday laws, prohibition, sumptings regulations, and other operations of a similar magnitude.

Least of all is it done reconstructing the already much reconstructed and much bedeviled South. It is not satispersons there attribute it to combinations in Liverpool and New York against the Southern States.

But it so happens that the Liverpool and New York cotton trade severely suffers by the decline, and that many of the dealers in the staple are brought by it to the verge of bankruptcy. Large amounts have been lost in New York, as well as in Liverpool, in vain efforts to sustain have been lost in New York, as well as in Livergooi, in vain efforts to sustain the price.

The dry goods market in New York and elsewhere feels the cotton decline. The domestic and imported goods are selling below cost. Some cottons bring less prices than they did before the war, less prices than they did before the war.

It cought to be the very first obstance of the control tax, and provide for refunding the cotton tax, and provide for refunding windy baked beans greated with flabby would be impossible. He denounces the as a Puzitati paradise. When recon-
